

Vancity

WORLD IN BRIEF

REPORT URGES

Anglicans, RCs unite

LONDON — Proposals that would reunite the world's Anglicans with Roman Catholics under the leadership of the Pope will be published this year, The Times reports today.

The proposals were drawn up by the International Anglican-Roman Catholic Commission for Unity and Mission and have been agreed to by senior bishops in both churches.

The 42-page statement, which was leaked to The Times, is apparently being considered by the Vatican, whose bishops are preparing a formal response to the proposals.

There are about 78 million Anglicans in the world and about a billion Catholics. Anglicans split with the Vatican in the 16th century, rejecting papal authority.

— AFP

THE VANCOUVER PROVINCE

British Columbia, Canada

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2007

Vancity

WORLD IN BRIEF

REPORT URGES

Anglicans, RCs unite

LONDON — Proposals that would reunite the world's Anglicans with Roman Catholics under the leadership of the Pope will be published this year, The Times reports today.

The proposals were drawn up by the International Anglican-Roman Catholic Commission for Unity and Mission and have been agreed to by senior bishops in both churches.

The 42-page statement, which was leaked to The Times, is apparently being considered by the Vatican, whose bishops are preparing a formal response to the proposals.

There are about 78 million Anglicans in the world and about a billion Catholics. Anglicans split with the Vatican in the 16th century, rejecting papal authority.

— AFP