George Washington is a powerful symbol for America upon which to rally loyalty and patriotism. Due to the power his image is able to command various claims regarding aspects of his life are focused upon or embellished. The information we receive can be incomplete, unreliable or distorted by those with a deceptive agenda. One area of his life being questioned in this article involves his Christian faith in relation to his Masonic membership. We want to know if George Washington was a committed Christian, a committed Mason or both. Since Christianity and Freemasonry are incompatible we want to know which claims made about him are accurate and which ones are erroneous. In considering the claims made by Masonic authorities we know that the Masonic agenda is one of secrets with deception even towards its own members in the lower degrees. Our one-page article The Christian, Lucifer And Freemasonry takes a quick look at the deception Masons have given authority to in their lives by placing their trust in the Masonic Order. It is therefore reasonable to suggest that George Washington himself would have been the victim of Masonic deception and manipulation during his life. After his death the powers of darkness behind Masonic manipulation went to work creating perversion within America. Pornographic symbols were attached to George Washington's memory diverting attention away from the Masonic agenda dedicating America into bondage to the god of Freemasonry.

When Freemasons venerate George Washington's Masonic affiliation they malign the facts in most everything they touch concerning him. While George Washington was indeed a Mason he was also a committed Christian who didn't understand that his Masonic affiliation would be used to promote the secret societies destructive force in America. As a Mason he knew very little about Freemasonry the same as most Masons who don't even know the true identity of the god of Freemasonry they obligate themselves to. Our five-page article, First Lodge Night looks at what Masons actually obligate themselves to in their oaths and rituals. In this regard he was no different than Christian Masons around the world who are ignorant concerning the authority operating within Freemasonry. There is however another possible explanation regarding George Washington's involvement with the Masonic lodge. Rather than explaining his membership as being that of ignorance could it be that he knew exactly what he was doing? That in his uncompromising determination to protect America he had infiltrated the secret societies to learn their plans to defend his nation. This would explain why he didn't attend lodge meetings during the last thirty years of his life even though he maintained membership. His membership would have been crucial giving him information concerning Masonic manipulation within America. Based on the available evidence regarding George Washington's actions in relation to Freemasonry this is probably a more accurate explanation for his continued Masonic membership. General George Washington knew the strategic value of being able to intercept the plans of the enemy.

George Washington had little time or interest in attending lodge meetings devoting his time to war, independence and forming the new nation. His concern for America is backed up by the fact that while President he wrote letters with warnings about the threat of the secret societies. This is probably another reason why he had little to do with the Masonic lodge as he began to understand its threat to America and its conflict with his Christian faith. He was a patriot guiding his nation with freedom and liberty for the people rather than being self-interested in what the lodge could provide for him. George Washington was a committed Christian dedicated to justice for all not just for a select few behind lodge doors. He was a great patriot of America not because of Freemasonry but because of his Christian convictions to make America a great nation rather than a self-serving Masonic Republic. These convictions would have been in direct conflict with the Masonic agenda to enslave America under Masonic authority. Freemasonry: Influence Peddler's of the World provides further detail on Freemasonry's attempt to enslave America under Masonic authority as a Masonic Republic. In relation to these considerations Washington would have had to maintain some distance between himself and the lodge to conceal those convictions that laid the foundations for America. Even George Washington with his dedication to America could not maintain an ongoing presence in an organization with the satanic implications noted in our article Satanic Implications of Freemasonry.

When Freemasonry is unable to manipulate an honorable man it waits until he has died to alter his legacy making it to conform with its agenda. To mask Washington's loyalty to the new nation and his embarrassing warnings regarding the dangers of the secret societies Freemasonry had to create deception. After his death Freemasonry began to create a facade regarding his Masonic affiliation. He was now painted in full Masonic regalia. Monuments were erected dedicated to his Masonic affiliation. Indignities were committed after his death creating a national deception to one of the greatest patriots America has known. If Washington were alive today he would be sickened by these adulterations committed against his loyal service to America. Rather than preserving his memory America has allowed his name to be used by those obligated in a dark agenda detrimental to America.

Freemasonry has so successfully overshadowed George Washington's Christian faith that few Americans understand it was this faith in God's hand guiding him to defend America from a Masonic power struggle for control of America. To research George Washington's Christian faith go to Google George Washington Christian. To honor themselves diverting attention away from the deception they had created Masons built the George Washington Monument an obelisk representing their ancient phallic symbol of regeneration. If America truly honored the faith that founded and defended their nation they would renounce this pornographic symbol erected in his memory by the secret societies. An obelisk, a symbol of perversion represents Masonic authority operating in America dedicated to the Architect Of The Capital. Called the Washington Monument, it's appalling to imagine America so deluded by Masonic manipulation in allowing his memory to be attached to such a profound perversion.

Another humble man of God who served America well was President Lincoln who paid with his life resisting Masonic interference in America. Without Masonic interference in America many of its wars including the U.S. Civil War could have been avoided. The secret societies have shed much blood in America under a dark agenda dedicated to the Architect Of The Capital.
